BOOKS ON ENGLISH

Gardiner, Kittredge & Arnold's

Manual of English Composition

Language in its relation to thought and the expression of thought.

Practical, rather than theoretical.

Particular attention paid to narration, description explanation, and argument.

Appeals to both teacher and pupil because of the simple force of its method.

The Standard English Classics Series

Admirably adapted to meet the College Entrance Requirements in English. Several new volumes have recently been issued to meet the College Entrance Requirements for 1909-1911. A complete list with suggestions for the teaching of English literature in secondary schools will be sent post-paid on application. A few recent additions to the series are:

Goldsmith's Deserted Village

(Edited by Louise Pound)

Byron's Mazeppa and the Prisoner of Chillon

(Edited by S. M. Tucker)
